Learning and Teaching

The BSc (Hons) Business Studies (General) degree has been developed based on CRe8 which articulates the University of Bedfordshire's approach to creating an environment that supports effective learning and teaching characterised by appropriate curriculum design, realistic learning, employability and suitable assessment strategies.

The practice of business and management is at the heart of the teaching, combining the technical and academic business knowledge with skills such as communication, problem-solving and teamwork to make your experience in the Business School as much like real business as we can make it. We focus on collaborative as well as individual learning and practice which closely mirrors the demands of the business environment so as to enhance your employability.

Teaching and Learning of essential concepts and theories will be delivered through a combination of lectures seminars and workshops. The latter two are where you will apply the concepts that have been taught to the analysis and resolution of realistic or actual business issues.

As you progress through the course you develop as an independent learner. This requires you to bring in learning from a variety of contexts disciplines that have been part of your course. You will need to make extensive use of our online learning platform (BREQ) and wider reading to develop your managerial and operational capabilities.

You will develop personal and professional planning skills that combine ambitious career aspirations with the career management skills to connect the curriculum with the diverse requirements of the workplace.

Staff on this course work with companies in either research or consultancy and this informs the relevance of teaching and assessment on the course. Many of these companies are actively involved with the course in providing guest lectures, projects, career advice and opportunities.

Assessment

The overall aim of the assessment strategy is designed to enable you to demonstrate the ability to do business in practice. We use a wide and varied range of assessments in the knowledge that individuals are not all the same therefore you will find a broad range which reflect a wide range of learning styles. You will be given opportunities to demonstrate that you understand the theory and have developed critical thinking skills which help evaluate the relevance of what has been learned.

Assessments are designed to help you to develop and demonstrate the skills that are essential to effective communication in businesses settings and to allow for progress through the course. Critical to assessment is the feedback to you will receive throughout the course. Feedback will range from formal feedback based on submitted work to informal feedback in discussions and seminars. Assessment will use a variety of methods.

Developing your employability

This course uses leading edge techniques of practice based education to develop and enhance transferrable skills and hence your employability. This means that whilst you are gaining academic knowledge, you are also developing practise expertise. You will also develop a wide range of communication skills, both as an individual and as a group. Working on major tasks such as an individual dissertation and real world projects for companies gives you a broad opportunity to apply both your academic knowledge and your process and people skills. You will find that this practical experience combined with a strong base of academic knowledge makes you a very attractive potential employee. A major emphasis on this course is the use of projects that are sourced from our business partners. These are from a variety of different industries and from both the public and private sector.

The course also contains a very strong employability focus during which you will have the opportunity to work with our professional services such as the award winning Careers Centre and also employers to develop close understanding of your capabilities and areas for development.

Students who register for the degree with professional practice year will additionally attend a series of workshops and activities related to securing a suitable placement and compulsory briefings at the end of year 2 to ensure that all legal requirements for health and safety, safeguarding etc. training have been met,. This will be explained more fully in your professional practice handbook once you have registered with the Careers and Employability Service's Student Development and Awards Team in your first year. If you will be working with children and/or vulnerable people you will be required to have a DBS check and undertake Safeguarding and Prevent training.

After Graduation

On completing this course you are likely to progress into the following areas:

Career:

On completing this course you are likely to progress to a career in a wide variety of industries. Our aim is to produce practice based all-rounders who understand the demands and requirements of the commercial world. The experience you will gain will equip you with both the knowledge and process skills to make you highly effective. This course prepares you for the world of work and you will find that you can easily fit into a wide variety of tasks and organisations.

Further study:

Equally, you could decide that you wish to continue your studies so that you may specialise in a particular area. Historically our students study for a wide variety of Business related MSc's both within the University of Bedfordshire and in other UK institutions

Additional Information

Students starting in February will be taught through the summer (semester three) allowing them to progress to the 2nd year in September.

The PAL scheme at University of Bedfordshire is based upon 2nd/3rd year students (PAL Leaders) working in pairs or trios, to facilitate friendly, weekly PAL sessions with first year students. PAL is intended to help new first year students:

- Adjust quickly to university life
- Make friends and connections
- Create an informal learning community for student scholars
- Acquire a clear view of course direction and expectations
- Improve your study skills/adjust their study habits to meet the requirements of higher education
- Enhance your understanding of the subject matter of your course through collaborative group discussion
- Prepare better for assessed work and exams

Student Support during the course

We adopt a business-style approach to supporting your academic development and want you to be a strong independent learner, taking responsibility for your own success.

Student support services. The following links provide access to the University of Bedfordshire's student support services: <http://www.beds.ac.uk/studentlife/student-services>, <http://www.beds.ac.uk/studentlife/student-services/academic> and for international support: <http://www.beds.ac.uk/studentlife/international2>

In addition, a range of services are available to you as a student on this course in addition to information in your course handbook:

Library Services (<http://lrweb.beds.ac.uk>) and the Student Information Desk (<http://www.beds.ac.uk/studentlife/student-support/sid>) will usually be your first point of reference and two of the places you will visit most often. For an overview of those services, including Health and Well Being as well as Career Services please visit: <http://www.beds.ac.uk/studentlife/student-support>.

A Personal Academic Tutor (PAT) will be allocated to you. Your PAT will be your coach during your studies. You will receive help in learning and in becoming more self-aware.

BREO: Bedfordshire Resources for Education Online (BREO) includes the University's virtual learning environment (Blackboard) and a range of other technologies. Through BREO you will have access to a range of materials and resources to help and support you in each of the units you study and it is important that you access BREO regularly to find out about any changes.

Professional Academic Development (PAD): It is not unusual to need some extra advice and guidance on developing your academic skills. The University has a specialist support area- Professional Academic Development (PAD) who can help and support you in a range of areas including:

- The quality of your written assignments
- Your understanding of mathematical or statistical concepts
- Your organisational skills and how you approach studying
- Your time management and prioritising
- The strategies you use when reading
- Your language skills
- Aspects of your IT skills
- How you prepare for exams

There is no cost for PAD's services. If you feel that you would benefit from some additional help with your studies then do contact them. You can visit their web site at <http://lrweb.beds.ac.uk/pad> to find out the dates of workshops on a range of topics or to book one-to-one appointments. You will also find a Professional Academic Development link on your home page within BREO which provides access to a range of additional on-line resources.

Course-specific support includes the following:

Your Course Coordinator will be there to advise you on:

- Specific information regarding your Course, particular Units, options, regulations, etc.
- Accuracy of your results
- Obligations regarding re-assessment and repeats
- Materials including the Course Handbook, and Induction information.

You will have an induction during your first week where all relevant information regarding this course will be presented and you will have an opportunity to meet your Course Coordinator, and a number of your tutors.

There is an expectation that degree programmes covered by this Subject Benchmark Statement should provide a broad, analytical and highly integrated study of business and management.		CLO's 1,4,5,6,7
Graduates should be able to demonstrate relevant knowledge and understanding of organisations, the business environment in which they operate and their management. Programmes emphasise understanding, responding and shaping the dynamic and changing nature of business and the consideration of the future of organisations within the global business environment, including the management of risk.		CLO's 1,4,5,6,7
The interrelationships among and the integration between these areas are very important within the overall student learning experience, and should be demonstrated in the capabilities of successful graduates from all modes of delivery.		CLO's 1,4,5,6,7
Organisations: this encompasses the internal aspects, functions and processes of organisations including their diverse nature, purposes, structures, size/scale, governance, operations and management, together with the individual and corporate behaviours and cultures which exist within and between different organisations and their influence upon the external environment.		CLO's 1,4,5,6,7
The business environment: this encompasses the fast pace of change within a wide range of factors, including economic, environmental, cultural, ethical, legal and regulatory, political, sociological, digital and technological, together with their effects at local, national and global levels upon the strategy, behaviour, management and sustainability of organisations.		CLO's 1,4,5,6,7
Management: this encompasses the various processes, procedures and practices for effective management of organisations. It includes theories, models, frameworks, tasks and roles of management, including the management of people and corporate social responsibility, together with rational analysis and other processes of decision making within different organisations.		CLO's 1,2,3,4,5,6,7
Business and management degrees are strongly related to practice and therefore provide a clear link between the development of relevant skills and employability of		CLO's 1,2,3,4,5,6,7

Graduates should be able to demonstrate a range of cognitive and intellectual skills together with competencies specific to business and management. Graduates should also be able to demonstrate relevant personal and interpersonal skills. These include both subject-specific and generic skills	CLO's 1,2,3,4
